Paula Berry

Head of Crown Court Department

RAHMAN RAVELLI

Paula Berry

Paula's vast Crown Court experience has led to great success in securing acquittals in both serious and complex crime cases. These have involved allegations of international drug trafficking, firearms smuggling, people trafficking, money laundering, serious fraud and gangland murders.

The Legal 500 has praised the work of her dedicated Crown Court team and noted her ability as a leader in her field.

Paula is recognised in the legal profession as a highly-respected expert in the fields of serious and complex crime and business crime. Her track record is one of success.

As she is a skilled negotiator, she has achieved great success in reducing the key components of prosecution allegations. This has often led to the authorities having to lower their initial claims about the size of frauds.

She has taken cases to the House of Lords and successfully defended clients facing allegations of large-scale fraud. Her ability to seek, assess and use evidence to advance her client's case swiftly has resulted in many high-profile successes and earned her the respect of colleagues and those she represents.
